A Note on the Fall Season...

With school beginning tomorrow I feel it's important to address a few things. Students will start to get busy and we will start to see them more stressed than normal (especially after the year and a half we've had!). Please please please continue to help and encourage them!

*They will need to learn time management in order to maintain success in all areas this fall. Help them plan time for homework/other school obligations that work with the band schedule and your family's schedule. This will help immensely!

*They also need to stay healthy by eating right and getting appropriate sleep.

We want this experience to be challenging, fun and worthwhile. We all wholeheartedly believe this activity teaches the kids real life skills they will need forever. Keep pushing them to show up and do their best and they will reap the rewards!
